General Terms and Conditions for the Use of Software and Services

1. Content of the Agreement

DIGSILENT GmbH (hereinafter called DIGSILENT) will maintain and provide technical support for the DIGSILENT Software (hereinafter referred to as "Software") listed on page 2 of this Agreement and installed under the specified operation system under the conditions set out below.

For the purpose of this Agreement, operating systems are defined as the operating software of the computer installation and any system utilities and programs, database systems and system components supplied by others in their entirety (hereinafter referred to as "Operating System (OS)" as required for proper execution of the Software.

Maintenance is limited to the Software installed on a computer system and under an Operating System as defined on page 2 of this Agreement. In the event of multiple use of a software product, be it on several computer systems or under several Operating Systems, a special agreement has to be entered into for such extended use, if not otherwise stated in the License Agreement.

2. Subject and Scope of Maintenance Services

2.1 Standard Maintenance and Technical Support

In consideration of the payment of the general maintenance fee as set out in Clause 7.1, DIGSILENT grants the Licensee the right to the following standard maintenance and technical support services:

- a) During the period of the Maintenance Agreement, all Software improvements and extensions resulting from general program development will be supplied at no cost for the modules currently installed as specified on page 2 of this Agreement. This includes also delivery free of charge of updated versions of the Software forming the subject of this Maintenance Agreement, which is normally done on an annual basis.
- b) The provision of new or amendment of existing documents in connection with services rendered under Subclause 2.1a).
- c) Debugging the Software and correction of errors in the documentation of which DIGSILENT is informed in writing by the Licensee under the terms of Clause 3.1, and which nullify or substantially reduce the value or utility of the software, under the provision that such services are not excluded under the terms of Clause 4.
- d) Advisory service by properly trained staff in all problems concerning execution and application of the software, including passing on of experience in program execution and application from all other users, where permissible, for the Licensee's adequately-trained staff.
- e) Implementation of specific requirements of the Licensee as long as these are of general interest also for other users and could therefore be considered as a general Software improvement.

3. Conditions of Maintenance

3.1 Notification of Deficiencies

As soon as the Licensee has identified faults in the Software, he must notify DIGSILENT of these in writing and enclose suitable execution documents. The Licensee shall allow DIGSILENT's personnel free access to his computer installations for the purpose of rendering maintenance and technical support services. No charge shall be made for this utilization of the Licensee's computer installations.

3.2 Notifications of Changes to Licensee's System

The Licensee shall inform DIGSILENT in writing of any modifications to computers, configurations and Operating Systems to the extent that they affect execution of the Software maintained under this Agreement, and shall apply for approval in writing from DIGSILENT for such changes.

3.3 Additional standby, safety and security measures

It is incumbent on the Licensee to provide standby arrangements as well as to implement measures to protect stored data against destruction or to secure against unauthorized usage (making of copies etc.).

3.4 Acceptance

Immediately following installation of a new, authorized Software version, the Licensee has to run an acceptance check. If no deficiencies are notified in accord with Clause 3.1, the Software is deemed to have been accepted and the newly-installed version is considered as the currently valid version as stipulated in Subclause 2.1a.

4. Limitation of Maintenance and Technical Support Services

The following are excluded from maintenance and technical support:

- a) Parts of the Software which have been modified or added to by persons other than DIgSILENT's staff or individuals authorized by DIgSILENT, and such parts for which the provision of maintenance services has been rendered more difficult by such actions.
- b) Software installed on computers and under Operating Systems which due to resetting or the replacement of hardware components or parts of the Operating System have been changed with respect to the specifications at the time of entering into this Agreement, and for which DIgSILENT has not given their approval in writing for the Software concerned.
- c) Software products, which do not correspond to the currently valid version as, defined in Subclause 2.1a.

5. Liability

5.1 DIgSILENT's Obligation

DIgSILENT undertakes to render the maintenance and technical support services with all due care.

The Licensee is reminded of the fact that according to the state of the art of software technique, it is not possible to produce software, which excludes the risk of malfunction, and moreover elimination of faults may prove impossible or involve a lengthy process. Therefore, it is incumbent on the Licensee to take due regard of this fact when utilizing the Software and the computer system in general.

DIgSILENT's liability is in accord with statutory provisions, and limited to the value of the fees charged for the services rendered. DIgSILENT shall not be liable for any direct, indirect, consequential or incidental damages including damages for loss of business profits and business operation.

8. Period of Agreement8.1 Period, Termination

The period of this Agreement starts at 23rd August 2019. This Agreement is initially entered into for each Software product for a fixed period of 24 months. After this period has elapsed, it may be terminated by either party for each item of Software, giving three months notice to the end of the Agreement year.

8.2 Premature Termination by DIgSILENT

DIgSILENT is entitled to terminate this Agreement or parts thereof if the Licensee extends or modifies the Operating System or the Software with elements which neither originate from DIgSILENT nor are approved by DIgSILENT, and as a consequence considerably hinders rendering of maintenance services.

9. Rights to Software Improvements9.1 Rights to Software Improvements

The Licensee acknowledges that as regards corrections and improvements to the software made in connection with this Agreement, he shall have no rights other than those set out in the Software License Agreement, and that all remaining rights, in particular the right to dispose of software corrections and improvements, accrue exclusively to DIgSILENT.

9.2 Confidentiality

The Licensee undertakes to maintain confidentiality with regard to software corrections and improvements, and to guard against their content being made known to third parties by his employees. He may transmit neither software corrections nor improvements nor associated documentation to third parties, nor make copies for third parties nor utilize software corrections and improvements or parts thereof for the benefit of third parties.
